

Per bob pike building official.

We can cancel revision on 23-7875 for the addition of the stairs, the owner must apply for a separate permit for stairs. As long as the owner has an active workflow for new permit for stairs, we can CO house.

House must be built according to approved plans, it is understood that there was a miscommunication and that the stairs have already been built, per bob pike, if no application is received we will open case for unpermitted construction, but as long as owner applies no CV, and it is also understood by bob that the stairs require a variance, this is the reason for canceling revision and applying for separate permit in order for owner to receive CO after meeting CO requirements.

CO requirements:

Pass final engineering

Pass final building

Proved final septic approval from health department.
